

September 30, 2015

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

EasyConferences provided all conference organizations services for the 29th Annual Conference of the European Health Psychology Society, which took place in Cyprus in September 2015. In my role as the Chair of the Scientific Committee I became thoroughly familiar with the support they provided us on this front. I highly recommend the services of EasyConferences and am writing this letter to express my deep appreciation of the most professional services we received from their team.

EasyConferences took the time to learn our guidelines (to submitting authors; track chairs; etc.), and then tailored their abstract system perfectly to our needs. Moreover, they were open to additional requests as we went along. They never once said that anything is impossible, difficult, or too time-consuming – though, if based on their experience, they thought we were wrong, they tried to convince us that what we are asking for is not optimal. In these cases, their suggestions were usually very good – they do have more experience than us in some respects – yet they always respected our final decision and implemented it. Their ability to provide us with all the flexibility we needed was remarkable and extremely helpful.

They continuously offered their help and provided assistance in any task that was not purely scientific and in which they could help. Anything they took under their responsibility was carried out in the most orderly way. Such support allows the Scientific Committee to focus on the difficult enough task of compiling the highest quality programme, without worrying about the technicalities.

The entire EasyConferences team is highly service-oriented. They corresponded with potential and registered conference delegates, submitting authors, track chairs, session chairs, and committee members with endless patience, the most timely, kind and polite responses, and most importantly, with professional solutions to any question or problem that arose.

Their perfectionism was apparent in the way they handled even the most minor tasks. Everything they provided us with – from the computerized programme to the final printed conference handbook – was beautifully designed so that it was both user-friendly and a joy to the eye!

Sincerely yours,

Professor Yael Benyamini
Tel Aviv University